Historic Christ Church, at Millwood, in Clark County, was banded with white lilies and evergreens for the marriage of Miss Dorothy Gilpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brooke Gilpin, and Dr. Lewis M. Allen, of Baltimore and Winchester, last evening at 6:30 o'clock. A brilliant company of guests witnessed the ceremony, and several hundred were entertained at the reception which followed at "Scaleby," the country estate of the bride's parents. The altar and the chancel of the church were decorated in garlands of white blossoms and many burning candles, and the Right Rev. John Gardner Murray, assisted by the Rev. John M. Roberson and Rev. William D. Smith, of Winchester, officiated.

The bride's wedding dress was fashioned of soft, white satin chamoisee and trimmed in point applique lace. Her hair was styled in the fashion of long, thin, and she wore the orange blossoms that had fastened her mother's bridal veil. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids, and entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her away. They were met at the chancel steps by the bridegroom and his brother, A. S. Allen, who was best man. The maid of honor, Miss Eleanor Schenck, of Philadelphia, was escorted in pale blue satin with a tulle of white chiffon finished with lace ruffles and touches of pink about the bodice. She carried an armful of pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Misses Isabelle B. Carter, of Richmond; Chloe Tyler Cooke, of Baltimore; Mary Page Nelson, Jane W. Wood, of Baltimore; Margaret Burwell, Margaret B. P. Burwell, of Clark County; Willie L. McKnight, of Winchester; and Caroline W. Kennedy, of Norfolk. They wore quaint dresses of palest pink satin with tulle of white chiffon trimmed in cream-colored lace, and the bridesmaids wore in blue and finished with girlish of pale mauve. Their hairdresses were black tulle hats with rhinestone eyes, and they carried big bouquets of Killarney roses. Little Mary Harrison, Randolph, who was flower girl, wore a white lace frock and carried a gift basket filled with roses. The ushers were Courtney Weems, Daniel E. Conrad, Randolph T. McGuire and William Nelson Page, all of Winchester. The bride's groomsmen, Richard L. Gilpin, brother of the bride, and Kenneth G. Rogers, of Baltimore; Kenneth N. Gilpin, of Clark County; Harry C. Warden, of Berkeley, and A. Holmes Allen, of Richmond, brother of the bride.

It was a brilliant and fashionable event, and more than 200 invitations were issued for the wedding ceremony and the reception following. The church was filled with guests, and the chancel was decorated with white and pink chrysanthemums, and an orchestra played for the reception and the dancing. Later, Dr. and Mrs. Allen left in a limousine for "Scaleby" to spend Christmas with the bride's parents. The groom is a son of Robert Owen Allen, and both he and his bride belong to distinguished and well known families. Out-of-town guests at the marriage were Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gordon Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Mastin, Frank N. Mastin, the Misses Tilghman, Mrs. James Leven Rogers, Mrs. Arthur Brodgen, Mrs. Frank S. Hambleton, Mr. and Mrs. G. Howard White, Mrs. Agnes C. Turner, Miss Helen Devan, Francis Key Murray, and Mrs. Howard Hill, Dr. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald H. Taylor, from Baltimore; Mrs. Foley E. Dixon, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bonvier, Henry B. McQueen, of New York, and many others.

In New York.

P. J. Jeffries, Mrs. A. W. Patterson and Mrs. James Branch Cabell left here on Tuesday night for New York, where they will attend the session of the National Civic Federation, of which Seth Low is president. Miss Maude Westmore, who has several times visited in Richmond, is chairman of the Woman's Department of the federation, and Mrs. Hodgson will receive with her at the Colony Club this evening.

Miller-Wingfield.

The wedding of Miss Willie Lewis Wingfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Rowe Wingfield, and Edward Lee Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller, of Norfolk, took place last evening at 9:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, 1213 Floyd Avenue. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. J. Williams, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church, and an improvised altar of palms and lighted candles was arranged at one end of the drawing-room. The entire lower floor was decorated with palms and ferns, and Miss Louise Lewis, of Norfolk, sang "For You Alone." Just before the entry of the bride party, the groom's sister, Miss Emma Miller, played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and the Adagio Sostenuto of Moonlight Sonata (Beethoven).

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a lovely gown of white brocade satin, trimmed in lace and pearls, and the court train fell from her shoulders. Her long tulle veil was fastened with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Norma Wingfield was her sister's maid of honor, and was gown in yellow chamoisee with an overabundance of lace, finished with fur and rhinestones. She carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaids—Misses Lois Miller, Hunter, Wingfield—were gown in gold lace and butterfly bows of pink velvet, and their bouquets were of pink roses. P. R. Taylor, of Jacksonville, Florida, of the room, was the best man, and the ushers included Professor West and J. H. Steinbrecher, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left later in the evening for Pinehurst, N. C., and other places of interest in the South, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mrs. Miller is descended from some of the oldest families in the State—the Lewises, Lees and Angells—and the groom is prominently related throughout Virginia. Some of the guests from a distance attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller, of Norfolk; P. R. Taylor, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Miss Louise E. Lewis, of Norfolk; Miss Henrietta Craig, of Washington; Mrs. J. H. Godsey, and little daughter, Catherine Godsey, of Washington; W. F. Roberts, of Washington.

Buffet Luncheon.

Mrs. John Landstreet and Mrs. Robert J. Willingham, Jr. were hostesses at a lovely buffet luncheon at the home of the latter, 3029 Grove Avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The house was decorated in poinsettias, holly berries, running cedar and palms, and the luncheon table was set with a big basket of poinsettias and lilies of the valley and orchids mixed in center piece. Baskets of crimson flowers decorated the drawing-room, where Mrs. Landstreet and Mrs. Willingham stood to receive the guests. Both wore black velvet gowns finished with lace, and carried bouquets of violets and orchids. Nearly 100 guests were present.

Weddings To-Day.

An important event of this evening will be the marriage of Miss Alice Coleman Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hugh Nelson, to Duncan Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Smith, of the University of Virginia. The ceremony will take place at 6 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, 924 West Grace Street, and will be witnessed by only the nearest relatives and friends. A reception, to which additional guests have been invited, will be held at 6:30 o'clock. A number of charming affairs have been given in honor of Miss Nelson this week, notably a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Nelson yesterday, at which Mrs. Mann Valentine was hostess at her home, 913 West Franklin Street. The house was decorated in white, pink, orange and holly, and the table in the dining room was arranged with a silver basket of pink roses. Covers were laid for twelve guests.

An out-of-town wedding of much interest here is that of Miss Mary Gibson Huxley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Y. Huxley, of Matthews, and Miss L. Terrie, of Charleston, W. Va. The ceremony will take place quietly at "Outlook," the country home of the bride's parents, at noon to-day, and on the nearest relatives and a few intimates will be invited. Miss Evie Louise Knight, of Franklin, will be maid of honor, and Dr. Stanley Terrie, of Norfolk, will be his brother's best man.

Miss Huxley frequently visits relatives and friends in Richmond, where she has been much entertained.

Engagement Announced.

Dr. and Mrs. W. Peyton Moncure, of Fairfax, have announced the engagement of their granddaughter, Miss M. Vivian Powell, to Harry L. Carter, of Herndon. The wedding will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Moncure on December 12. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. C. Vernon Ford.

Surfage Meeting.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at surfage, located at the Commercial Building, on Second Street, the regular weekly meeting of the Equal Suffrage League will be held. Impressive and important, the meeting will be held in the hall of the Commercial Building, on Second Street, at 4:30 o'clock. Soyars—Cole.

The marriage of Miss Louise Hinchman Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cole, and the late W. A. Cole, to J. Shields Soyars, of Danville, was celebrated yesterday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, 3014 East Marshall Street. The house was decorated in pink and white, and white chrysanthemums, against a background of palms and ferns, and Mrs. W. I. Points played the "Bridal Chorus" as a quartet sang "For You Alone." INFANT DON JAIME BEGINNING TO TALK

Stone-Deaf Son of King and Queen of Spain Says "Mama" as First Word.

BY LA MARQUESE DE FONTENAY.

INFANT DON JAIME, the near six year old second son of King Alfonso, is at length beginning to speak, and the other day, shortly before the royal couple left Madrid for Paris, Vienna and London, caused his mother to almost faint away with joy by addressing her as "Mama," the first word he had ever spoken in his life. He is a lovely little child, the particular favorite of the royal family and of the royal household, and it is difficult to describe the sensation created when it was learned that he had commenced to speak; not, it is true, in an ordinary child's voice, but in rather a hoarse tone.

So many people were described as deaf and dumb, he is merely stone deaf, has been so from his birth, and has consequently never heard the sound of a voice.

It may be remembered that about this time last year King Alfonso's principal physician, Dr. Vincente Lorenzo, visited the United States, at the instance of his royal master, to receive the various methods in use on this side of the Atlantic for the relief of the deaf and dumb. The doctor returned to Spain so satisfied with what he had learned over here, that at his instance the King distributed several orders and decorations among those Americans who had assisted the doctor in his investigations.

Lip reading has, of course, been known for over 200 years. But it is generally acknowledged that nowhere has the art of teaching it attained so great a development and success as in the United States.

After the return of the doctor to Madrid, he caused the nurse of a religious order in Spain, which devotes itself to the care and education of the deaf and dumb, to be initiated into the American methods, and after this had been done, confided to three or four students of exceptional cleverness, the task of teaching the little Infant Don Jaime.

That they have been successful, is shown by the fact that he has not only been able to address his mother by her name, so natural to all children, but is also now learning, with a good deal of rapidity other words. For he is a particularly bright and intelligent little fellow. That he will ever be able to hear is doubtful. For not one of the half dozen serious surgical operations to which the poor child has been subjected, both in Switzerland and at Madrid, have had any beneficial result.

There is a painful feature about the child's affliction, namely, that it will have the effect of barring him from succession to the throne, and to such an extent is this the case that the baby of the royal children, the Infant Don Jaime, only a few months old, is being designated as the second heir to the crown, the first heir being, of course, the sturdy, fair-haired, stolid Alfonso, Prince of the Asturias, who is as blond as his brother Jaime is dark. The two boys get on capitally, and it is not unusual to see them, with one another. Jaime seems to understand every look and every movement of the lips of his elder brother, who in turn comprehends Jaime, and always acts as his interpreter.

That Joseph Caillaux should have succeeded in his avowed purpose of driving the Barthelemy administration out of office in France, seems well nigh incredible to those who recall the circumstances under which he himself was forced out of the premiership two or three years ago.

They were circumstances which excited almost universal disgust and indignation among his own countrymen and amazement abroad. For he was shown by a senatorial commission of inquiry, that he had used his position as Premier to carry on secret negotiations of his own with both Spain and Germany, without the consent of the Minister of Foreign Affairs, or the remainder of the Cabinet, and behind the backs of France's ambassadors abroad, with selfish and private financial interests in view.

Chosen by the Chamber of Deputies to German statesman, without the cognizance of his ministerial colleagues, or of the President of the republic, were made known by the commission officers affecting the honor and dignity of France, but which were not accepted, because it was felt in Ger-their sons to Rome to put in a term of service in the papal army, before returning home.

There is a large Catholic population in Switzerland, which has always been very loyal to the Holy See, and Pius X. felt that it would be unnecessarily affronting them to abolish the Swiss Guard, which has been in existence over 100 years just because half a dozen of its quietly uniformed members had rendered themselves guilty of insubordination, after having imbibed too freely of the heady wines of Central Italy, to enable them to realize the import of their mutinous conduct towards their officers.
